This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. ACCESS TO THE MANUSCRIPTS.

The privilege of access to the manuscript archives of the Department of State may be secured, so far as the facilities at command and the convenience of the office admit, upon application by letter to the Secretary of State. Applicants should describe as concisely and definitely as may be possible the papers they desire to consult, the scope of the examination contemplated, and the period of time during which they purpose to avail themselves of the permission, if accorded.

The privilege is to be exercised under the following

SPECIAL RULES AS TO MANUSCRIPTS DEPOSITED IN THE BUREAU OF ROLLS AND LIBRARY OF THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE.

I. Persons to whom the privilege of consulting the manuscript archives of the Department of State is granted can exercise the permission only subject to the convenience of the Department and the uninterrupted transaction of its business.

II. No manuscript shall, at any time, be taken out of the Department except by order in writing of the Secretary or an Assistant Secretary.

III. No manuscript shall be taken out of the Bureau of Rolls and Library, into any room of the Department, until a receipt in form and descriptive of the paper or volume be signed by the official taking the same and delivered to the Chief of the Bureau, or, in his absence, to the person in charge.

IV. No manuscript shall be detained from its place on the shelves of the Bureau of Rolls and Library after 4 p. m. of the day it shall have been taken; and no manuscript shall be taken from its place on the shelves by any others than the clerks in charge, except by special arrangement in exceptional circumstances.

V. The use of the indexes in the room in which the manuscripts are deposited is not permitted except through the clerks in charge.

VI. The privilege of consulting the manuscript archives does not include the use of the Library. The latter privilege must be independently asked of the Chief of the Bureau of Rolls and Library.

By order of the Secretary of State.

Philad^a July 5, 1775

Mr Strahan,

You are a Member of Parliament, and one of that Majority which has doomed my Country to Destruction.—You have begun to burn our Towns, and murder our People.—Look upon your Hands!—They are stained with the Blood of your Relations!—You and I were long Friends:—You are now my Enemy,—and

I am,

Yours,

DESIGNATION OF CHAPTERS.

CHAPTER A. Records of the proceedings of Congress. The domestic and foreign correspondence thereof; military letters, including those addressed or submitted to Congress by General Washington; reports of the Boards of War, Finance, Admiralty, etc.; with miscellaneous papers and letters relating to the war of the Revolution and of the Confederacy. This chapter, comprising all books, records, and papers remaining in the office of the "Secretary of the United States in Congress assembled" [Charles Thomson], was deposited in the Department of State under the provisions of the act of Congress approved September 15, 1789, and entitled "An Act to provide for the safe keeping of the Acts, Records and Seal of the United States, and for other purposes."

CHAPTER B. The Washington papers. (1) Public and private letters and other papers before the Revolution, embracing Washington's official correspondence and other writings during the French and Indian war; (2) his correspondence, official and private, from the beginning to the end of the Revolution, including general orders, army rolls, and other military papers, also the original drafts or first copies of these papers, which were retained and consulted by General Washington in camp (comprising two copies of nearly all his letters written during the Revolution contained in this chapter, and of his correspondence with Congress [Chapter A], the complete letter as signed and sent, as well as the transcript, entered on the records of Congress—that is to say, in the greater number of cases there are in the national archives, in this Department's custody, the draft, the transcript made under the direction of Richard Varick, "Recording Secretary to the Commander-in-Chief," the original autograph or signed letter as sent and received, and the transcript thereof in the volumes of the records of Congress); (3) letters and miscellaneous papers, public and private, after the Revolution and coming down to the end of his life (among which are the records of his intercourse with Congress and with the different executive departments while he was President, and many important cabinet papers); (4) the original letters received by General Washington and numerous original papers on public affairs, military, civic, and other subjects; (5) agricultural papers, being his correspondence with his superintendent and overseers, giving directions on the preparation and planting of the soil, rotation of crops, and other farming matters. His journals, diaries, and similar papers form an important part of this chapter.

CHAPTER C. The Constitution of the United States. The Journal of the convention for framing the Constitution and all papers appertaining to, or forming part of, the archives of that convention.

CHAPTER D. The papers and manuscripts of James Madison, purchased by authority of an act of Congress approved May 31, 1848.

CHAPTER E. The papers and manuscripts of Thomas Jefferson, purchased by authority of an act of Congress approved August 12, 1848.

CHAPTER F. The papers and manuscripts of Alexander Hamilton, purchased by authority of an act of Congress approved August 12, 1848.

CHAPTER G. The papers and manuscripts of James Monroe, purchased by authority of an act of Congress approved March 3, 1849.

CHAPTER H. The papers and manuscripts of Benjamin Franklin, purchased by authority of an act of Congress approved August 7, 1882.

CHAPTER I. Records of the States and Territories. Beginning with the journals and proceedings of the North West Territory.

CHAPTER K. The acts and resolutions of Congress; treaties between the United States and other powers; proclamations by the President and Executive orders and announcements.

INDEX.

[For the purposes of this index the several classes of papers deposited in the Bureau of Rolls and Library are considered as one collection. The Bureau, under existing equipment, can not confine its indexes or catalogues to any one particular class or collection of papers without neglecting others to which there exists at present little, if any, clue. While this series of indexes will, therefore, follow the alphabetical arrangement in the sense of authors, titles, and subjects combined, without regard to the separation by classes of the severally distinct collections of papers, the separated papers of any collection can be readily united by the chapter initial. The existing classification and arrangement of the bound manuscripts (by volume and number) will not be disturbed except where the restoration and preservation of the papers render ripping and rebinding imperative; and in that, as well as in the binding of loose papers, the original classification and arrangement will be followed as closely as may be to avoid the possible confusion consequent upon numerous citations from original manuscripts and references to them by historical writers in their published works.]

by Congress and the Commander in Chief to send necessaries for their support; is at a loss to explain why this indulgence is denied by Lord Stirling; incloses extract from a letter from Mr. Loring relative to officers who have broken their parole; also Lord Rawdon's instructions. Chapter A, No. 78, volume 3, page 265.

———. Headquarters, February 13, 1779. To the President of Congress (John Jay). Concerning the exchange of Lieutenant Hele and the crew of the Hotham (sloop); Lieutenant Gault, on whom they have fixed, is not in similar circumstances, as he is not a prisoner of war; the particulars of his capture laid before Congress some time since; desires instructions on this matter. Chapter A, No. 78, volume 3, page 291.

———. Middlebrook, March 31, 1779. To the President of Congress (John Jay). Refers to Admiral Gambier's letter requesting the exchange of Lieutenant Hele; desires instructions in order to reply. Chapter A, No. 78, volume 3, page 305.

———. Middlebrook, May 10, 1779. To the President of Congress (John Jay). Concerning Colonel Swoope's letter; is of opinion his plea is insufficient for his delay in returning to his captivity agreeably to the summons of the enemy and his parole; the friends of officers who furnished them supplies should be reimbursed; this case does not merit particular attention, however, at this time. Chapter A, No. 78, volume 3, page 313.

———. New Windsor, July 6, 1779. To the President of Congress (John Jay). Inadequate pay places him in a difficult position; has already been obliged to spend a third of his private fortune; supposes it is the intention of Congress to give officers a sufficient salary; for himself, only desires a bare subsistence; begs to be informed of their determination. Chapter A, No. 78, volume 3, page 329.
